INVESTMENT STRATEGY

A combined strategy of investing in stocks and bonds, including their equivalent financial instruments, with the aim of outperforming fixed-income investment returns with a higher risk than the fixed income markets. This is achieved through the active portfolio management using a variety of investment objects such as collective investment undertakings, stocks, debt securities, derivatives or alternative investments. The strategic weight for asset classes other than debt securities is around 50%, but the share of these investments can vary between 30% and 70% of the assets depending on market conditions and other circumstances. This means that the proportions of fixed income, equities and alternative investments can vary significantly between periods. Proportion of alternative investments may represent up to 30% of the assets. Derivatives can be used to hedge against currency exchange rate change risk.

COMMENT

The first quarter of 2024 was marked by strong share price growth. While market participants' expectations for a rapid rate cut have moderated, better-than-expected economic indicators and corporate performance in Q4 significantly increased the likelihood of a soft landing scenario in the world's leading economy, the US. While almost all sectors had a good start to the year, investors' optimism about the rapid development of the use of artificial intelligence was particularly favourable for the technology sector, which grew by more than 15% in the quarter. The rhetoric of the US Federal Reserve and the European Central Bank has remained largely unchanged in recent months. Central bankers have stressed that, although inflation has been declining recently, it is still above the target of 2%. January inflation was 3.1% in the US and 2.6% in Europe. The historically low unemployment rate and other positive economic indicators indicated that the economy remains strong without the additional stimulus of falling interest rates. As a result of these central bank comments, the market became significantly more conservative in its assessment of the likelihood of a rate cut in the next few months, while long-term risk-free government bond yields climbed higher. Highly rated bonds became cheaper, and their yields rose as central bank rate cuts were delayed. Riskier and lower-rated bonds appreciated on the back of good economic indicators. The yield to maturity on the investment grade tranche is currently 5.1%.
